Soldiers, families & employers share deployment experiences

CHEYENNE – An upcoming Yellow Ribbon event will discuss the different experiences of Wyoming Army National Guard deployments through the eyes of Soldiers, spouses and employers. The event will be held on Saturday at 10 a.m., at the Worland Community Complex Center.

The panel discussion is designed to spotlight similarities and differences of the significant challenges each group encounters throughout a deployment. The event gives military families, civilian employers and communities the necessary tools and information to ensure a successful post-deployment process for everyone. While Soldiers and their families endure significant challenges during the deployment and reintegration process, so too do the communities who support them.

The sustainment event will present and discuss how others have successfully reintegrated or provided support to families, Soldiers, employers, and their respective communities. Individuals representing resources that are available to assist with the reintegration process will also be available.

The Worland Community Complex Center is located at 1200 Culbertson Ave., in Worland, Wyo. For more information, contact the Yellow Ribbon staff at (307) 772-5457, or 866-992-7641 extension 5457.
